

Earth Day at the Meadowlands

Photos courtesy of NJMC/Jim Wright

Children of the employees of Panasonic in Secaucus were among some 200 people who marked Earth Day last Thursday with a visit to DeKorte Park in Lyndhurst, where the New Jersey Meadowlands Commission sponsored a full program of events, including nature walks, green-living workshops and crafts. During their walk through the meadows, the youngsters met a number of local inhabitants, including this slider turtle and red-winged blackbird. The NJMC also collected 75 pairs of old sneakers, which will be recycled and used in the production of new running tracks and playground surfaces.