

Developing Ethical Judgment Skills for Planning Professionals

Wednesday, June 24, 2009

1:00 – 4:00 PM

Meadowlands Environment Center * Two Dekorte Park Plaza * Lyndhurst * NJ * 07071

The planners at the New Jersey Meadowlands Commission invite our fellow planners with AICP to join us for a distance learning course via a DVD provided by the APA – Arizona Chapter. The course has received AICP approval for 3 hours of Certification Maintenance credits and satisfies the ethics requirement.

The course considers the ethics behind the types of decisions that planners are asked to make in our daily professional lives. Topics include an overview of how planners can anticipate pressures and avoid being caught in an ethical bind; how to deal with situations where decisions are called into question; and how to guide those you work with to uphold the ethical principles established by the APA and AICP. The instructor is Barbara Becker, Ph.D., FAICP, Professor and Executive Director of the Planning Degree Program in the Department of Geography and Regional Development at the University of Arizona.

Advance registration is not required. Directions to the Meadowlands Environment Center are available at <http://www.rst2.edu/meadowlands/#>. Please direct any questions to Linda Wills, P.P., AICP at (201) 460-3879 or by e-mail to Linda.Wills@njmeadowlands.gov.
